

18 David W. Miller House and Carriage House

1477 Maine Street

This house, built by hotel owner Miller in 1866, is a large Second Empire brick house with Italianate elements: a main square block topped with a flared mansard roof and cupola. Miller occasionally housed his overflow hotel guests here. The carriage house is a two-story brick building featuring decorative brickwork over the haymow doors and an arch design over the lower entrance.
