

The house contains seventeen rooms, including the baths and pantries.

The present owners have been restoring the house to its original condition for the 5 years they have owned it. They have rebuilt the front and back porches, opening up the front porch in the process (It was originally open). They have also stripped off 100 years' worth of old paint and replaced approximately 20 percent of the cedar shingle siding. They have restored the hardwood floors, replaced ceilings and wallpaper on the first floor. They are now working on the second floor bedrooms and bathrooms.
