

and John Whalen will represent the characters in the play, which is now being rehearsed under the able guidance of Professor C. P. Mac Hugh. The college orchestra consisting of forty pieces under the efficient directorship of Rev. Gabriel Lucan, O. F. M., will furnish the evening's musical program.

The performance will start promptly at 8:15 p. m. in the college auditorium.

Mrs. L. E. Emmons of 1123 Maine street has received the news through an Aurora paper that a fortune of three million dollars has been left Helen and Joe Felsenheld of Chicago, and their mother's sister, Mrs. Fannie Jauriet Platt. This great fortune comes to these three heirs from Mrs. Rosella Jauriet Kittridge, who died at the Hotel Del Prado in Chicago, the deceased being a younger sister of Mrs. M. Felsenheld and Mrs. Platt, and an aunt of Joe and Helen Felsenheld. There are many in Quincy who will feel much interested in this news as the Felsenheld family lived here for many years, their home being in the residence now occupied by Will D. Best, at 1422 Maine street. Mrs. Felsenheld was a beautiful and attractive woman, a devout member of St. John's Episcopal church, now the Cathedral. Her stepmother, Mrs. Jauriet, and her her half-sisters, Miss Fannie and Miss Rosella Jauriet, often visited here. Of the three children born to Mr. and Mrs. Felsenheld, one daughter, Mary, passed away three or four years ago. Joe and Helen are living in Chicago, the former having a wife and child.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Crane and Mrs. Finlay Carrott went to Chicago on the Eli Friday night, Mr. Carrott going up to join them last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Dazey, arrived from New York Saturday, Mrs. Dazey to remain until Christmas, while he returns to the east in about two weeks. They have been having a happy time in New York, after a delightful summer in Catskills, with visits from Newcomb Stillwell and other young friends, and frequent glimpses of their son Frank from Cambridge. He completes his Harvard course in February, going to be graduated in June. Mr. Dazey is busy with his new plays, his dramatization of "Fran" to appear on Christmas day. "Into the Light" is also about ready to appear, with distinct promise of success in all his work.
