

From the skylights in the basement to the turret music room to the stairway with five different types of wood, the house at 405. S. 24th is ...

7/13/97

One Unique Home

By Jim Lenz

Herald-Whig Staff Writer

The house at 405 S. 24th is not your standard house. That becomes clear when you see the skylights in the basement.

Yes, in the basement.

The three skylights are made of thick glass cubes set in the cement that makes up the sidewalk. Owner Sharon Zimmerman says one is now covered by the floor of a sunroom. But the other two let light shine downstairs.

When the house came on the market, Dave and Sharon Zimmerman quickly snatched it up. They had lived only four blocks away and

