

REPRESENTATIVE MEN AND HOMES.

FRANK W. OSBORN.

Mr. Frank W. Osborn, secretary and treasurer of the Quincy Coal Company, is one of the most prominent of the younger business men of the city. He is also secretary and treasurer of the Farmington Coal Company, the business of the companies with which he is identified aggregating a very heavy volume and covering a wide extent of territory. This business embraces coal mining on an extensive scale, as well as dealing in coal in heavy quantities. The Quincy Coal Company was the first to supply the Quincy market and its operations have been extended to many other cities. Mr. Osborn was born in Quincy, August 24, 1867. He is a son of Mr. Charles C. Osborn and a grandson of the late H. S. Osborn, one of the early settlers of Quincy and for many years one of the foremost business men. After completing his common school education, he graduated from the law department of Chaddock College, being awarded the gold medal for the best thesis. He commenced work for the Quincy Coal Company in 1884, being advanced rapidly until he was elected to the responsible positions which he now holds. A clean cut business man, of quick perception and capable of handling any amount of detail, he is well calculated to bring about success. Of elegant address, he is genial and affable and is popular in social as well as in business circles. Mr. Osborn has always been active in Sunday school work and is at present assistant superintendent of the Vermont Street M. E. Sunday school, one of the largest in the city.

HARVEY CHATTEN.

In architecture in this section the name of Mr. Harvey Chatten takes prominent rank. Many of the more notable buildings built in Quincy in recent years are substantial monuments to his artistic skill. Mr. Chatten was born in this city in 1853 and is a son of the late B. I. Chatten, for so many years the honored civil engineer. Inheriting his father's artistic ability as well as his sterling qualities, he early decided on his life work, securing his training in the office of the late Robert Bunce and in the offices of prominent Boston architects. He succeeded to much of the business of Mr. Bunce and was not long in establishing a substantial patronage. Among the more important buildings designed by Mr. Chatten are the Quincy High School, Stern building, the elegant residences of Mr. R. F. Newcomb, Mr. T. C. Poling, Judge Carter, Prof. D. L. Musselman, Mr. J. N. Wellman, Mr. George H. Stahl, Mr. J. B. Ellis and the handsome City Hall building. He also made the plans for remodeling the Newcomb block, Rogers block, Powers block and many other business houses. Mr. Chatten is also widely known in musical circles, his magnificent bass voice ranking as one of the finest in the entire country.

Promp
ties ver
success,
ence of
ness Co
Newark,
1869. H
old log
"Brush
work, bu
education
ated with mercial c
took com
colleges,
business
He then
for four opening f
commerci
Union B
hand, Ty
comb blo
standard
was well
this colle
three floo
bers sever
equipped embraces
and it is n
leading co
Anderson