

Interior Description:

- 1. Four fireplaces, three with original oak mantels
- 2. Three sets of oak pocket doors
- 3. Parquet floors
- 4. Oak woodwork and leaded glass windows
- 5. Upstairs has 5 bedrooms and 2 baths

History:

Joseph Lubbe was a member of a family that has been identified with Quincy since 1845. He was born and reared in Quincy and when a young man, took the responsibilities of managing his father's wine importing business. He especially developed a trade in altar wines and in former years he shipped this product for sacramental purposes all over the country. When he retired from the family business, he began a career in real estate. Lubbe was a prominent Catholic and a member of St. Boniface Church. He married Emma Hoene. Eight children were born to him and his wife, but only two survived infancy, a daughter, Anna Mary, and a son, Albert J. The Lubbe family lived in this home until 1973.